Abstract: The entry into force of the Government Emergency Ordinance no. 57/2019 and the consequent abrogation of a considerable number of normative acts that regulated the organization of a Commune in compliance with the principle of local administrative autonomy, obliges the executive management of these public entities to proceed to the deep reorganization of the institutions they lead. The cumulation of all normative acts regulating the local public administration in a unitary normative act under the generic name of "Administrative Code" constituted the main objective, declared in the preamble of the emergency ordinance by which it was adopted. However, drawing up an organization chart of a Commune is not an easy task. The existence of administrative customs, based on which certain public institutions functioned and still function, is a serious obstacle in modernizing the public administration. The "flight from responsibility", the insufficiency in the exercise of the attributions by the civil servants and the inadequacy in establishing the hierarchies and responsibilities in a Commune constitute consistent remnants, to which the Romanian administrative system is still dependent. The elaboration of the Administrative Code (O.U.G. 57/2019) aimed precisely at overcoming these weaknesses of the Romanian administrative system inherited from the transition period. The implementation of the Administrative Code means precisely the reorganization of the administrative-territorial units, objectified first of all in the functional organizational charts of the Communes.
